  - I. Claims 1-23 and 37-45, drawn to a method for storing and searching data provided by a moving object, classified in class 701, subclass 209.
  - II. Claims 24-36, drawn to a method of querying trajectory data stored in a database, classified in class 340, subclass 989.
  - III. Claims 46-49, drawn to a method of providing a notification to a user in a database system, classified in class 455, subclass 456.3.
2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because:
3. Inventions I, II, III and IV are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions. Group I, which is directed to a method for storing and searching data provided by a moving object by taking at the positions of the vehicle into account, wherein Group II performs a query on the trajectory data stored in the database based on the input selected geographic region from the user; and Group III directs to a method of sending a message to a user in a database system when a specified condition occurs.
4. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
